mbrella is the tool to manage flexible corporate mobility

mbrella brings flexible mobility solutions to your employees. We're a B2B, back-office provider that enables flexible mobility in your company for all employees, with or without company cars.
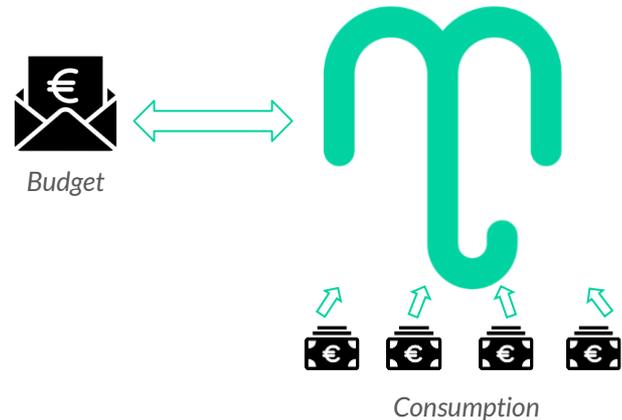

We track mobility consumption & manage budgets mbrella is a back-office facilitator that manages employee budgets and automatically tracks their mobility consumption.

Mobility managers can create users, with their budgets, change them and remove them all directly from the mbrella interface.

All mobility consumption is automatically tracked, stored and displayed vs. the original budget allocation.

Compliant to the royal decree

mbrella is fully compliant to the rules of the royal decree for the federal mobility Budget in Belgium.

- Budget creation and management for all users by the mobility manager

- Clear budget overview & consumption tracking, leading to automatic left-over amount at year-end

- User identification, with name, job title, timing, etc.

- System is prepared for data storage of 7 years & more

- Tracking of the complete spectrum of options in pillar 2 and consumption in pillar 1
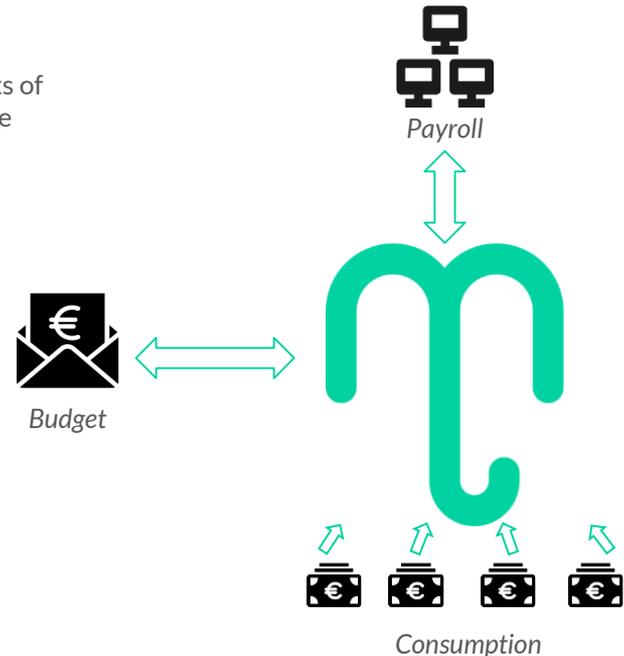

Automatic social secretary connections

A link to the social secretaries ensures that all information is processed automatically and reflected correctly in your employees' payroll.

The goal of mbrella is to simplify the life of a mobility manager in all aspects of flexible mobility. One of the major hassles is the correct treatment of these rewards in the payroll.

mbrella is there to build an automatic IT bridge between your employee's mobility consumption and your social secretary's systems such that all reward elements are transferred on time and treated in the right way.

Currently, the IT links are under construction with the social secretaries, we are having advanced discussions with all of the major players.

Open ecosystem for all providers mbrella aims to be a universal standard by building the bridge between employers, mobility solution providers and social secretaries.

Through mbrella we save both mobility solution providers as well as social secretaries the trouble to connect with multiple different parties, just one connection with us suffices to open up a plethora of different options.

We want to connect with all players in the space, to grow the space together and reap the mutual benefits that brings to each of us.

With our open ecosystem we can grow together

Solution integration	Social secretary adoption	Corporate adoption	Joint business growth

Solution integration

Lab-Box works together with service providers to smoothly integrate their offer into mbrella mbrella becomes a stronger offer with more solutions integrated

Social secretary adoption

Social secretaries will be more open to adopt mbrella with more integrated solutions

Social secretary integration provides the all-needed clarity and security for corporates

Corporate adoption

Smooth social secretary adoption will drive corporate adoption

Joint business growth

Corporate adoption will in turn drive demand for both our products
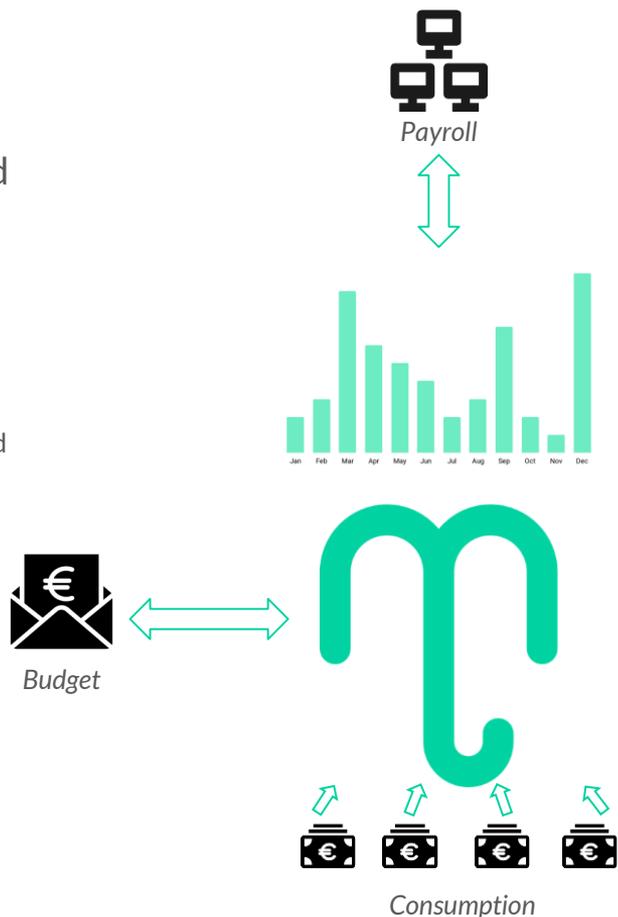

Additionally, early integrators will benefit disproportionately from the growth

Dynamic budget consumption

Mobility is not consumed purely by subscriptions and pre-set monthly amounts. Above all, mobility is and needs to remain flexible & dynamic.

Who knows how often you'll take a shared e-bike next summer? Or what budget you'd need for Uber every month?

Through mbrella you can consume your mobility as you go, there is no need to allocated pre-defined monthly budgets to your different ways of consumption.

Complete solution, incl. expense management mbrella enables all expenses to be added to the employee's budget for when the other means of consumption don't offer the complete solution.

Many types of expenses in the mobility budget aren't covered by the traditional apps and cards; i.e. housing rent or interest, bike purchase, etc.

mbrella offers an expense management system, incl. receipt and invoice uploading, to offer a complete and friction-free solution for all mobility spend options in the mobility budget (& beyond).

To maintain the right level of control for the organization, each manually added expense is sent through an approval flow where the mobility manager can check the modalities of the expense before it's paid out.

Beyond the federal mobility budget mbrella is a universal tool which can easily be applied to cafeteria plans, corporate expenses and other mobility management beyond the federal mobility budget.

Mbrella is a universal mobility management tool that can track the mobility consumption of employees for all types of budgets, allowing them to tag each trip for professional and private use.

Beyond the federal mobility budget, employers can use mbrella to keep track of their employees' flexible mobility consumption in cafeteria plans.

The universal connection to mobility solution providers and social secretaries creates a smoothless experience in terms of payroll integration.

Social secretaries

We're building integrated IT links with the main social secretaries to ensure flexible mobility is automatically & properly treated from a payroll perspective.

Compliant to the royal decree

We're fully compliant to all rules for a mobility account as dictated by the royal decree while also enabling the complete mobility budget with all options; i.e. rent, bike purchase, bike km reimbursement, etc.

Dynamic budget consumption

Mobility consumption of the future can't be boxed in fixed subscriptions and allocations per type, through mbrella you can consume what you want as you go.

Beyond the mobility budget mbrella is a universal tool which can easily be applied to cafeteria plans and corporate mobility expense management.
